CLP Energy for Brighter Tomorrows Award

Sponsored by China Light Power Limited (CLP), the Federation's commitment to recognise young people who had overcome tremendous life challenges, yet retained their positive outlook, continued with this Award. In 2018, 287 nominations from 106 schools were received. Out of this large and worthy number, it was unfortunate that only 20 could be selected after undergoing two rounds of interview.

The Awards Ceremony, officiated by Dr. Lam Ching-choi, BBS, JP, Member of HKSAR Executive Council, was held on 7 July 2018. Each winning student was awarded a scholarship of HK$5,000, along with a one-year mentorship programme with young CLP engineers as the mentors to provide winners with guidance and exposure. The students shared their stories and positive attitudes through drama for those in attendance.

Cross-boundary Study Tour for Post-secondary Financial Talents

Commissioned by the Financial Services and the Treasury Bureau, the Federation has been organising this cross boundary study tour since 2012 to help university students better understand monetary systems and financial markets of both the Mainland and Hong Kong.

This year, nine universities nominated 31 students, who then undertook work attachments; and visits to different government bodies, regulators and start-ups in Shanghai. These attachments were carried out at 14 financial institutions for nearly five weeks.

The Launching Ceremony for this year's programme was held on 8 June at which the Guest of Honour was Mr. James Lau, JP, Secretary for Financial Services and the Treasury. The staff of the Hong Kong Monetary Authority also conducted a sharing session on "Financial Technology and its Latest Development" for the participating students.

Mr. Paul Chan was the Gold Prize winner as the founder of Walk in Hong Kong, which provides well-researched tours, open to anyone eager to experience the lesser-seen sides of Hong Kong.

A new category “Innovative Award” was also added to promote innovation and the first winner was Avatech Innovation Limited, who used AR and VR technology to support the STEM programmes in education. They won the Award, cash of HK$100,000 and other prizes and promotional services.

For the past eight years, 200 young talents in the fields of science, engineering and health-related studies have participated in the Innovation and Technology Scholarship Award Scheme.

Supported and sponsored by the Innovation and Technology Commission and HSBC, 25 awardees each receives a scholarship of HK$150,000 to take part in a series of elite training opportunities through the Overseas/Mainland Attachment Programme, Mentorship Programme, Local Internship Programme and Service Project Programme.

This year, the scholarship also supported undergraduates to further their studies at such institutions as Stanford University, John Hopkins University, Harvard University, the University of Oxford and the University of Cambridge, among others. They were also able to intern in technology corporations and government departments.

Over the years, over 60% of graduated awardees have either set up their own technology businesses or are working in the innovation and technology industries; another 24% are enrolled in post-graduate studies.

In parallel with the Scheme, the Innovation and Technology Scholarship Alumni Association offers a platform to all scholarship recipients to support each other and promote science and technology in schools and the community.
